EXPERIENCE

Mark Bradley, Robins Kaplan's chief innovation and technology officer, oversees the Business Innovation and Technology Services (BITS) group supporting technology needs across the firm's eight national offices. The BITS team runs a dynamic and state-of-the-art environment that focuses on firm-wide operations, cyber security, infrastructure maintenance and improvement, efficiency, and dependable, effective IT and communications services to our firm and our clients.

With over 25 years of experience working in information technology, Mark has concentrated his efforts over the past 15 years working in law firms. Most recently, he served as the chief information officer for McAfee and Taft, a law firm in Oklahoma City. Prior to his arrival at McAfee, Mark was director of infrastructure services for Arnold & Porter Key Scholer, LLP, an international law firm headquartered in Washington, D.C.

Mark holds a Bachelor's degree in political science from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University ("Virginia Tech"). A life member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity, Mark is ITIL certified and a member of the International Legal Technology Association (ILTA).
